

ATHLETES IN THE RAIN.

The Field Day Sports Contested in a Drizzling Mist.

The field-day sports of the west side high school were given in a drizzling rain at the fair grounds Saturday afternoon. None of the contestants appeared at their best, for the condition of the ground precluded it. There were few spectators, but the young men succeeded in creating enthusiasm among themselves, and kept it up to the close. The tennis games were postponed, but aside from them the program as published was carried out with the following results:
