

Central, Eastern, and East Lansing will all be seeking points at the annual roundup of the cream of the high school track talent.

All three schools have individual stars who should survive the preliminary heats to earn their way into the finals where they will stand a good chance of winning points for their school. It is doubtful if any of the three schools have the team balance to win the state championship. Of the three Central is the strongest. It has Ted Tycocki, who broke his own state broad-jump record with a leap of 23 feet 1 3/4 inches in the 5-A meet at Ann Arbor last Saturday night.

He will be out to eclipse this mark in the state jamboree and also win points in the 200 low hurdles, 100-yard dash, and help the 880 relay team out.

Mead to Be Watched

Bob Saunders and Ted Wonch are the Quakers' main hopes. Saunders set a new meet record of :15.9 in the 120 high hurdles in the 5-A and Wonch won the pole vault with a leap of 10 feet 6 inches.

East Lansing's showing at the Class B regional in Grand Rapids wasn't too strong, but it presented a sprinter in Ron Mead, who broke two meet records. He reeled off the 100 in 10.2 and the 220 in 22.9 for his record-breaking spree.

Central also is strong in the shot put with Denise and DeWitt. The latter has been winning first place regularly in dual meets this season but Denise surprised Coach Howard Gleason by coming up with a first place in the 5-A meet to nose out DeWitt.

Two changes in Central's baseball
