Chief Bender Passes at 71

Was Once Big League Star Pitcher

Philadelphia — (AP) — Charles Albert (Chief) Bender, one of baseball's great all-time pitchers and a member of the Hall of Fame, died Saturday at the age of 71.

Bender, who had been ill for some time, died in Graduate hospital where he had been under treatment for cancer and had recently suffered a heart attack.

Bender, who in 15 years as one of the best pitchers in baseball, never made more than $2,400 a season, had been serving as a coach for the Philadelphia Athletics at more than double the pay he got as a pitcher.

The man who won 206 games and pitched 41 shutouts, took less money out of his baseball career than some modern day bonus kids get for their first check.

The Chief, one of 13 children, was the first pitcher to win six World Series games.
