National High Hurdle Mark Equalled by Farmington Ace

Warren Cawley, hailed as the finest schoolboy hurdler in the country, finally got a share of a national record Saturday, breezing over the 120-yard high hurdle course in 13.9 seconds at the state track regionals at Thurston High.

The performance capped weeks of disappointment for the young Farmington High star, who had bettered national marks in both the highs and the 180-yard lows recently only to have his feats canceled by high winds.

Cawley's time equaled a 1957 record set by George Hern, of Admore, Pa.

PONTIAC WINS

Although Cawley won two other events and aided the Farmington 880-yard relay team in winning another, his team placed second to well-balanced Pontiac Central in the final Class A standings.

Pontiac piled up 60 7/10 points to 40 1/5 for Farmington. Birmingham (35 1/5), Ferndale (35), Redford Union (12 3/4) and Berkley (8 1/2) trailed the leaders.

N.J. Prep Equals World Dash Mark

ENGLEWOOD, N.J., May 16.—(AP)—John Mostyn, 18-year old senior from New Jersey's Bergen Catholic High School, broke the oldest existing schoolboy record and tied a world record when he was clocked in 9.3 seconds for the 100-yard dash at the Englewood Memorial meet today.

Jesse Owens set the schoolboy mark in 1933 with 9.4 while Mel Patton, Dave Sime and Bobby Morrow have 9.3 times in the book. Mostyn was locked in 9.3 by four timers. One watch caught him in 9.2, another in 9.4.

Cawley equaled his own state record of 19 seconds flat in winning the lows. He was clocked in 18-6 seconds, a fifth of a second off the national mark, in preliminaries, but the ing the center of the first row. Six drivers had speeds above 144 and two exceeded 143.

Every qualifier, including the pole-winning Thompson, came in to admit a bad case of nerves. Most of the jitteriness was due to wind gusts, up to 20 miles an hour, that blew east and hit the racers heading north and south.

WIND DIES DOWN

The Rathman brothers, first Jim and then Dick, made their second attempts shortly after 4 p.m., when the wind was dropping. Jim averaged 144.433 m.p.h. and Dick 144.248. Dick was the 1958 pole-winner. Eddie Johnson followed the Rathmans and averaged an even 144 m.p.h.

Jimmy Daywalt, on Dan Levine's Federal Engineering Special, started his trial with a 144.462 first lap, but dropped to 141 m.p.h. the second time around and Russ Snowberger, chief mechanic, flagged him off.

ALMOST LOST CONTROL

Even Jim Rathmann was shaken up by the wind and the speed he felt he had to go. After three laps at better than 144 m.p.h., on his first attempt to qualify, Jim's car "almost got away from me" and he did not finish the fourth lap. Later he put it around at 144.33 m.p.h. to get the outside position in the first row, barely beating the speed of his brother, Dick, who is on the inside in the second row.

Paul Goldsmith, of St. Clair Shores, Johnny Parsons, 1950 winner, and Jimmy Daywalt were drivers who started trials and were called in by crews who didn't think they were going fast enough.

Goldsmith was averaging close to 143 m.p.h. when yellow flagged by his chief mechanic. Parsons was doing just over 140. Daywalt had averaged 142 for three laps. Daywalt, driving one Dan Levin's two Federal Engineering entries, did 144 on his first lap, then dropped to 141 m.p.h.

Other qualifiers were Rodger Ward, of Los Angeles; Bob Veith, Oakland, Calif.; Eddie Johnson, Cuyahoga Falls, O.; Gene Hartley, Indianapolis, and rookie Don Branson, Champaign, Ill.

wind was too high. He took the broad jump with a leap of 22 feet, 1 inch.

Birmingham's Bill Alcorn bettered his own state pole vault record, going over the crossbar at 13 feet, 1 inch. The mark won't count as a record, however. Performances in the state meet are the only ones given official recognition. Alcorn's state record is 12 feet 11 3/4 inches.

CRANBROOK ROLLS

Powerful Cranbrook, compiling 84 1/2 points, ran away from its Class B competition with a balanced attack. Two of its runners, John Butzel (100 and 220-yard dashes) and Larry Dewitt (quarter-mile run and broad jump) were double winners.

South Lyon's Paul Underhill, the defending state champion in the half-mile run, won his specialty in 2:01.5.

Trailing Cranbrook were Bloomfield Hills (27 1/4), West Bloomfield (24 1/2) and Lutheran West (17 1/2).
