

Henry Carr, the hottest natural athlete Detroit has had in many years. Coaches who saw him shatter three Public School League records last year and better the league 440 yard indoor mark this year predict that before the season ends the 18 year-old Northwestern schoolboy will smash FSL records in the 100, 220 and broad jump.

Track happens to be just one sport in which the "Ghost" is proficient. Some say he's best in football with basketball a close second. His gridiron feats placed him on All-City team last while he scored 27 points in his final game against St. Paul in March.

Experts began taking notice when Carr started the season last week by running the quarter mile in 51.5 seconds, a Detroit indoor record, then repeated as Northwestern beat Cooley, 67-24 in an indoor meet Wednesday.

Carr said he promised Jerry Burns, Iowa's new head football coach, he would enroll with the Hawkeyes. "I will sign the tender for my scholarship next week," he declared. Carr is looking forward to the 1964 Olympic Games in Tokyo. "I hope to be on the team that flies there and my goal is to win for the United States," he said. The 200-meter and the 400 meter runs are the distances at which Carr will try to qualify at the 1964 finals.
