

Henry Carr backed up his boosters' Thursday that he is the nation's fastest high school sprinter. In registering his finest track performance of the season, the Northwestern senior equaled one world sprint record time and tied another national high school best. However, neither performance will be submitted for recognition because of a strong wind which may have helped him.

Carr raced 100 yards in 9.4 seconds in a triangular meet with Ford and Western, and then sprinted 220 yards in 20 seconds flat on the Ford track. Jessie Owens, of Cleveland East Tech, set the prep 100 mark of :9.4 in 1954. Dave Sime, then of Duke, 1933 at Chicago, and Jim Jackson, of Alameda, Calif., tied in set the world record of :20 for 220 yards in 1956. Carr shares the prep 220 mark of :20.6 with Mel Clipper, of Pasadena, Calif.
