At the Jackson Invitational, which celebrated its 30th anniversary this past weekend, the boys harriers from Milford had another strong outing, scoring 120 points to finish second to the 90 points of Grand Ledge.

Novi's boys justified their number one state ranking by capturing Catholic Central's Shamrock Invitational, with senior Chris Toloff snaring top honors with his 14:52. The host school took second, and Livonia Stevenson, Northville and Farmington filled out the top five.

Anchor Bay won its own boys invitational on Friday, with Romeo and L'Anse Creuse taking the next two spots. Kevin Boose of Romeo captured individual honors, his 16:48 edging the 16:50 of Anchor Bay's James Szopo.

The Romeo girls captured the Anchor Bay Invitational in fine form, scoring a very low 22 points. Port Huron took second, followed by L'Anse Creuse. Teresa Bongiovanni of Romeo, a junior, won by nearly a quarter mile margin with her 18:47 course record. Teammates Catherine Schmidt (20:00) and Stephanie Saylor (20:03) took the next two places.
